August 13, 2010

Dear Staff,

Welcome to the 2010-2011 school year! One of the great things about public education in the United States is that there are annual summer breaks. Our summer reprieve is a time for rest, relaxation, and reflection. Seemingly, no matter what has happened in the past, the time away from work renews our spirits and we start back again in the fall of each year with new hope; our hope rests upon the assurance that we have a solid foundation to build upon. Last year certainly had its challenges, but I am confident that our staff, parents, students, and communities will bring a renewed sense of dedication and commitment to the job at hand. Our faith in our own abilities and the abilities of our colleagues will assist us in having an exciting and successful school year.

Our mission and our goal continue to be the same—it is to ensure that our schools effectively educate all students. We cannot reach this goal alone; it will require effort, sincere collaboration, and most of all, determination and persistence on the parts of all stakeholders.

Our first day back for all staff is Monday, August 23, 2010. I am asking that we all meet in the high school auditorium for our initial meeting. The remainder of the agenda for the first week of school has been attached upon for your perusal. I look forward to seeing you on Monday, August 23rd!
